Panorama

Panorama's innovative analytical engine was the basis for Microsoft's development of its powerful and market leading Analysis Services OLAP product. Panorama has continued to develop the front-end tool for that engine as Panorama Novaview. It now exploits the Analysis Services functionality to the fullest extent.

Thorogood

Thorogood has worked with Analysis Service since Microsoft first launched the product, bringing the benefit of its thirteen years of complete focus on business intelligence applications to very many Analysis Services solutions. We are now working with Panorama to bring that extensive experience to implementations of Panorama Novaview.

Features

Panorama Novaview has unique features, for example, it provides alerts and content delivery services, with a unique bubble-up of exceptions that is ideal for expenditure control. Also the security features are particularly strong, so you can be sure users only get the information that they are entitled to see. It can also track usage of data and analytics, so it is possible to build applications that charge or allocate costs by user. There is the fullest choice of information delivery options, so it is sure to suit every type of user.

Many distinctive and powerful applications can be created. If you would like to explore how Panorama could meet your needs then contact us.
