Workshop – Front End Tool options for Microsoft Business Intelligence

Thursday 8th December 2011

The number of different tools and the range of delivery options available to consumers of Microsoft Business Intelligence can be overwhelming. Knowing which tools are available and in what scenario they work best is essential for a successful Microsoft BI project.

Join us at this workshop for a tour of some of the front end tool choices available for delivering Microsoft Business Intelligence

When: Thursday 8th December 2011, 10:00 – 13:00, with lunch to follow

Where: Ealing Film Studios, London, W5 5EP

Content

This interactive session will demonstrate a range of tools available to users of a Microsoft Business Intelligence solution and highlight the architectural implications of the choice of each. The session will cover both Microsoft and third party tools:

- Microsoft Tools
 - SQL Server Reporting Services
 - Report Builder
 - Excel 2010
 - PowerPivot
 - Performance Point Services
- Panorama Necto
- Strategy Companion
- Tableau

Is it for you?

Do you already use, or are you considering the Microsoft BI architecture but don't know which tools to use? Would it help you to understand the pros and cons of front end tool options available to you with Microsoft BI to really address your organisation's requirements, and add business value? Would it help you to see what other people are doing? If so, this event will be a worthwhile investment of your time.

Format

The workshop is in an informal round table setting. There will be presentations and demonstrations from our specialists who will also facilitate discussion and answer questions. It will be held at Thorogood offices, Ealing Film Studios on Thursday 8th December 2011, running from 10:00 – 13:00, with lunch to follow.
